ENERGY OFFICIALS SPOKE TOO SOON that brownouts, including those in Manila, would be spared from further rising tomorrow.

Power supply in the country's main island suffered a shortfall yesterday afternoon due to the breakdown of two power units, causing up to three-hour waiting outages, according to National Grid Corp. of the Philippines (NGCP).

NGCP said Luzon registered a deficit

US report on drugs sets off alarm bells

By Norman Bordadora and Cathy C. Yanezan

A FLURRY OF CALLS FOR NAMES TO BE NAMED was raised yesterday in reaction to the United States' expressed concern about the possibility of narco-politics influencing the Philippine elections on May 10.

Sen. Francis Escudero said the US Department of State is well-served by the media in receiving drug money from traffickers for their campaign, "so that the voters would know and give time for these candidates to explain and deny" the accusations.

"It's also important to know this so that any presidential candidate is not held by the stick by drug lords," Escudero said.

Makati Mayor Jejomar Binay, the vice presidential candidate of the Pseudo ng Masang Piyansa (PMP) and president of the United Opposition, urged the Philippine Drug Enforcement Agency (PDEA) to produce a list of politicians benefiting from the multimillion-peso drug trade.

But Binay warned against "a witch-hunt" in the media during the election period, and said the list should include only those politicians whose links to drug syndicates were backed by solid evidence.

'High IQ not qualification for public office'

By Leticia B. Solerterio

SAYING A HIGH IQ IS NEVER A guarantee of good public service, the Commission on Elections (Comelec) has jettisoned disqualification cases against Sen. Manuel "Lito" Lapid and world boxing champ Manny Pacquiao, whose candidacies in the May elections were questioned for lack of academic credentials.

The Commission's second division based on merit in the petition filed by Gily Pacu-ing, a baroque lawyer and himself a disqualified presidential aspirant, when petitioners ordered demanded for calling them "disbar" during a public hearing in January.

Pacuating argued that Lapid, a neuroscientist, was "hardly educated" and knew little about lawmaking, while congressman of Sorsogon Pacuating was "essentially very poor and not prepared" to step into the ring of legislation.

Comelec admits double registrants in voters' list

By Christine O. Arendale

MORE BALLOTS MAY BE PRINTED than the number of actual voters with the activation of the Commission on Elections (Comelec) yesterday that the 50.7 million registered voters in the May polls included those who had registered twice or more.

At the resumption of a joint congressional executive hearing on poll automation, Comelec officials could not readily provide the number of double registrants but said it was not as big as the 5 million or 3.2 million being projected by some quarters.

Comelec Chair Jose Melo downplayed the controversy and said that boards of election inspectors (BEIs) would be given copies of double registrants with

JPE tags Angara as Villar emissary to Gordon

By Christine O. Arendale

THE EMISSARY SENT BY SON Manuel Villar to convince Sen. Richard Gordon to withdraw from the presidential race to exchange for certain favors in Sen. Eduardo Angara.

Senate President Juan Ponce Enrile "summed" this possi-

On Tuesday, Gordon said in a live radio interview that an emissary of Villar's had offered him a Cabinet post as well as reinstatement of his senate-purge expenses if he would pull out of the presidential race and withdraw his signature from a Senate committee report concerning Villar in connection with the C-5 mad extension project.

Enrile had earlier claimed that Villar was behind a plan to oust him as Senate president because of the committee report, and that Villar had planned to have Angara replace him.

Yesterday, Enrile said, "My recollection is that when I filed the report of the committee, the

'MORONG 43' TORTURE PROBE

CHR summons AFP, PNP

By Alvin Pags and Jonny Up

THE COMMISSION ON Human Rights (CHR) has summoned officials from the military, the police and the judiciary in connection with its investigation into allegations that the "Morong 43" have been tortured.

The officials were asked to personally appear on March 18 at a CHR hearing "under the guise of courtesy," according to a Feb. 26 order from CHR chair Leticia de La Cruz.

Summoned were: Brig. Gen. Arjo Legaspi, commander of the Army's 2nd Infantry Division, Col. Norito Baladad, commander of the 202nd Infantry Brigade; Lt. Col. Jaime Alarcon, commander of the 15th Infantry Brigade; Capt. Wilton Palanghayan, 2nd Period Police commander; Judge Cesar Manigault, presiding judge of the Iloilo, Cebu, Regional Trial Court Branch 22; two police officers from the 15th Infantry Brigade; and two military officers.

To answer the allegations of torture within 30 days were: Armed Forces Chief Gen. Victor Banatao, Philippine National Police Chief Dir. Gen. Jesus Villanueva, Attorney General of the Philippines, and the 15th Infantry Brigade, and Southern Luzon Command Chief Lt. Gen. Romeo C. Sinas.

GMA, too

Asked to file their statements were President Manuel Arzob, Deputy Secretary for the Office of the President, Secretary of the Office of the President, and Justice Secretary Arzob.

The CHR also ordered the members of the Armed Forces and the PNP who have custody of the Morong 43 from "conducting prohibited acts of physical and mental torture."

The military arrested the 43 during a Feb. 1 raid on a tent house in Morong, Rizal, owned by the late Arjo Legaspi. Authorities claimed they were looking for weapons and explosives. The 43 were held in Morong for 43 days and they were held incommunicado for 43 days.

The CHR is conducting an investigation as a result of the charges filed against the officials for alleged human rights violations. Legaspi, Palanghayan, and other military and police officers were charged with torture and other human rights violations.

All those summoned, with the exception of the Arzob, were asked to explain why the 43 were held incommunicado in a military camp.

Change of lawyers

Meanwhile, a military spokesperson says they want a change of lawyers after their lawyers allegedly asked them to stop cooperating with the military's human rights commission.

According to Lt. Col. Romeo Sinas, the 15th Infantry Brigade commander, the 43 were held in Morong, Rizal, for 43 days. Legaspi, Palanghayan, and other military and police officers were charged with torture and other human rights violations.

The 43 were held in Morong for 43 days and they were held incommunicado for 43 days. The 43 were held in Morong for 43 days and they were held incommunicado for 43 days.

Pols warned on talks delay; gov't, MILF reps meet in KL

THE PRESIDENTIAL OFFICE ON THE Peace Process has cautioned politicians who are calling for resumption of peace negotiations with the Islamic Liberation Front (ILF) that the delay is a danger signal to the nation and international community.

"It is suggested that this move is to send a very dangerous signal to the nation and the world that peace is being given a back seat to politics," Secretary of Defense Antonio Trillanes said, following talks by former senator Francisco "Biboy" Villar and other lawmakers in Manila.

Trillanes is warning for senators in the May national elections while the younger filial is bidding to reap more with his father's leadership of Congress.

Malabon, government representatives will meet with MILF representatives in Kuala Lumpur today but the Philippine president said a peace deal is unlikely before President Ma's term ends next year.

Trillanes said yesterday the officials and MILF representatives would meet at an undisclosed location in the Malaysian capital, but did not say how long the talks would last.

"It will be one of a quietest and narrowest session rather than any major issues taking place and they could talk about some kind of interim arrangement before any proper agreement is reached," Trillanes said.

Following a series of runs in selected areas in Mindanao, the Office of the Presidential Adviser on Peace Process (OAPP) resumed its "Dialogue Mindanao" program yesterday in Puerto Princesa City.

Ateneo asked politicians "think of and be responsible for what might be the consequences on society which such talk can trigger."

Court-martial clears colonel

By Joseph R. Ky

A MILITARY TRIBUNAL HAS ORDERED FOR the release of a Marine colonel, once threatened of leading the failed peace grab of February 2008. For failure of the peace effort to provide sufficient evidence to implicate him.

The general court-martial on Tuesday ruled in favor of Col. Armando Sison when it asked the court to overturn his previous decision regarding an appeal to dismiss the war charges against him.

"We find a consistent opinion by the court for reconsideration but after the court weighed our evidence and the evidence of Sison is even, it ruled in his favor," Col. Jose Mariano said following the court's ruling.

Sison would also be reinstated to the military service "in a normal assignment" of the Department of Defense after his release.

Sison has been incarcerated at the Manila Naval Base since his arrest in February 2008.

FESTIVAL SICES
 Students of the Carmona National High School join the street dance during the opening of the Sertosa Festival 2010 in Carmona town. Hundreds of tourists witnessed the event, which carried the theme "Dancing Bull, A Lot of Excitement."

Farmers win tilling rights in town raffle

By Maricar Cline
 Carmona, Cavite

A SPANISH COLONIAL WAR of having public land riled has been revived and kept relevant in the agricultural town of Carmona in Cavite through its week-long Sertosa Festival.

It seems like still one to two hectares of land that the municipal government is holding for three years—until, says Chief Clerk, by whom the town's history shows that it was a Spanish colony (history denied).

The raffle of land parcels happens every Sertosa Festival, a national event that dates back to the town's creation, then called Sertosa under the municipality of Alibon, before its municipality in 1907.

"It was then called Sertosa de la Virgen Comendadora del Pósito de Carmona (City of the Comendadora of the Pósito of Carmona), which referred to a decree of Spanish Governor General Antonio Manuel de la Cruz that allocated the land to the original settlers of the town," Mayor Benito Lopez said.

In 2005, the municipal government looked back at history and came up with the week-long Sertosa Festival. This year, the raffle began on Saturday of Feb. 20 and ended on Jan. 28 and ended the afternoon of Feb. 22.

Only those born in Carmona or had married residents are eligible to join the raffle during the Sertosa Festival.

Only those born in Carmona or had married residents, or both, are eligible to join the raffle. Of the 5,738 who registered, 100 residents were awarded the lot parcels, according to Justice Francisco, municipal information officer.

"One of our municipal employees won 10 lot parcels but he specifies how it was won: the P100,000," she added.

Each prize won also gives to 140 people.

Planting seasons
 "If you want to till the land yourself, the land can be used for three planting seasons in a year. So that's three times in three years and that will earn you much more than P100,000," Justice said.

After the period, the farmers will return the land to the municipality for use in the next festival's raffle.

"The municipal government is also providing irrigation to the farmers," said Mayor Benito Lopez. Sertosa residents head, along the three of 100 lots, are cattle, swine, and other livestock, characterized by the wider farming of the livestock and long dry spell in some parts of the world, including the Philippines.

"Hopefully, we would be successful with it," he said.

Commercial yet agricultural

In 1998, Carmona was known as the garbage dump of Metro Manila. In 2005, it was not.

"I asked the President (Gloria Macapagal Arroyo) to close down the landfill here because Carmona was already starting to grow as an urban municipality then," Lopez said.

Carmona, with a population of about 100,000, has become a first-class municipality in the 10th district of Cavite. It has more 200 factories in eight economic zones and sports a district, such as the San Lorenzo Sports Field.

Lopez said the town was now striving to be called the "town of entrepreneurs and sports in Calabarzon (Cavite, Laguna, Batangas, Rizal, Quezon)."

Despite the transformation, it intends to retain its agricultural side, the said. Of Carmona's land area of 3,392 hectares, at least 20 percent remains agricultural.

PHILADELPHIA SPENDING COULD BE a little less than the $100 million that Philadelphia's Augustus "Boss" Smith estimates the nation's wealthiest 1 percent will spend in 2000. But the city's elite are not alone in their spending habits. The following are four ways to elite:

1. Spend on the Internet. The Internet is a place where the elite can find everything they need, from the latest in fashion to the latest in technology. KING JAMES' NIGHT

Giants complete sweep

By Maeng B. Castillo

TALK ABOUT A COMPLETE NIGHT and you'll end up talking about James' Tip.

On a night when he stepped up two individual accolades, Tip helped Punditbook complete a clean sweep in the PBA Philippine Cup title series by leading his 96-76 victory in a scrum of Alaska before their 17,000 screaming souls at the Araneta Coliseum.

After also winning his first Player of the Conference award, Tip claimed the crown that defined the Aces in the fourth period as the Tanduay Giants proved just the fourth 4-0 sweep in the PBA—third in a championship series, and first for all Philippine teams.

"It wasn't I am happy," Tip said before he left the arena. "I was more like, I would like the team to win the championship, so that everyone would be happy."

A couple of hours after that statement and after 18 big points that led all Punditbook doozies, Tip got what he wanted.

"We achieved our goal," added Tip, who was later named the Most Valuable Player (MVP) of the 2017-18 season. "I am really happy now because we and my teammates have the biggest reason to celebrate."

Punditbook actually won its last seven games in the playoffs en route to its 20th all-time crown as the defense of the Tanduay Giants' championship was their only loss.

Tip's tip was also big, finishing with 15 points and six assists, with a help of his own team in the final 2:20 giving the Tanduay Giants a 96-76 win.

The Aces' unexpected triumph of winning back at their point with Willie Miller being a key. But James' Tip's tip was also big, finishing with 15 points and six assists, with a help of his own team in the final 2:20 giving the Tanduay Giants a 96-76 win.

"Chapter closed. Destination reached. We are accomplished. There are no more obstacles," Punditbook coach James' Tip said, who was named MVP of the season.

Meanwhile, 2017 and 2018 PBA MVP Tip's tip was also big, finishing with 15 points and six assists, with a help of his own team in the final 2:20 giving the Tanduay Giants a 96-76 win.

After the league's expected outcome and there are more waiting out of games from Punditbook's PBA MVP Tip's tip was also big, finishing with 15 points and six assists, with a help of his own team in the final 2:20 giving the Tanduay Giants a 96-76 win.

Pacquiao beating up sparmates, says security

By Ray Lanza

HOLLYWOOD-MANHO PACQUIAO is reaching peak form for his March 13 defense of the World Boxing Organization welterweight crown against Gennadiy Golovkin.

This was when Canadian film crews were doing up with Pacquiao's sparmates, who caught up with him at his Thai mansion near the PBA-Cebu City.

Press, Pacquiao's chief security, added that the second-round king again spent with his sparmates in a 10-round afternoon session held behind closed doors under the watchful eyes of master trainer Freddie Roach.

"The more guys they get on him, the more guys he beat up," said Press, citing Pacquiao's sparring routine with Bernard Hopkins and Daniel Serrano and light heavyweight prospect Jose Romero of Mexico, Ireland.

According to Press, the 39-year-old former, who compiled a 148-10, 12 loss record in a welter division career highlighted by a silver-medal effort in last year's Abu Dhabi Youth Championships, became an overage and "beat up little boys."

The observation of Press, filed with comments from boxing pundits who've seen Pacquiao boxing up his skills for the March 13 bout with Golovkin at the MGM Grand in Arlington, Texas.

10 hurt in Antipolo City as truck hits 13 vehicles

By CJ Yap

TEN PERSONS, INCLUDING two young girls, were hurt after a 10-wheeler truck ran into several vehicles over a 1-kilometer-long stretch of Sunnyside Highway in Antipolo City yesterday morning.

The accident occurred at 8:30 a.m. on a downhill portion of the highway near Francisco Rodriguez, Barangay Masingan, investigators said.

Kabot Villanueva, the driver of the truck with plate number 090-155, claimed to lose control of the vehicle after the brakes failed. It hit 13 vehicles, including a passenger jeepney with Robert Ganga inside.

"The driver was unable to control the truck as it plowed into a parked jeepney, then it hit a Toyota Xena, then a Fiat, and then an abandoned van and so on. It happened over a 1-kilometer-long stretch of road," Ganga said.

'Hotel sale the deal of the century'

By The S. Santos

A MANILA COUNCILOR YESTERDAY rebutted the claim of a city official that the sale of Century Park Hotel was void and illegal.

"That's a lie," said Councilor Maria Lorenz Legaspi, referring to the statement made by Mayor Alfredo Lim, secretary to Mayor Alfredo Lim, that the sale of the hotel was unconstitutional and in compliance with all the necessary procedures.

The hotel was sold for P1 billion to Marubay Hotels and Resort Corp., which is majority-owned by Liza Lim.

Century Park Hotel was sold for the sale was used for public services, including the new 35-story bus terminal.

Lim, however, claimed that the city council did not approve the use of the P1 billion proceeds from the sale for the construction of the hospital.

According to him, the new hospital and the bus terminal is a financial loss to the City of Manila.

Lim, who is running for vice mayor with Lim's political clan, former Vice-Mayor Ismael Lim, also said that the city council had approved a supplemental ordinance setting aside millions of pesos for the purchase of medical equipment and the new hospital's operating expenses.

"We're deal of the century. It's a huge transaction by far in the city of Manila. If we sell it, we would have saved the Century Park Building because its lease contract would have expired by then," she said.

Lim said that the resolution which approved the sale of the hotel indicated a much smaller fee area compared to the resolution of the property.

'Plain and simple plunder'

"It means we not only lost money because it was sold at below price per square meter, we also lost money... because there are at least 30,000 square meters remaining for plain and simple plunder. If it's not plunder, then it's certainly corruption," she said.

Meanwhile, Lim, who is running for mayor, vowed to recover the P1 billion city property on which the hotel is built should the resolution be voided.

"We are fully committed to recover what is considered one of the 'meat profits' of Manila," he said.

Earlier this week, a lawyer filed a petition with the Office of the Ombudsman against Lim and several other city officials over the sale of the hotel.

In a 26-page complaint, Republic L. Bugarin said the sale should be nullified and the respondents penalized because the sale was "unlawful and grossly disproportionate to the City of Manila."

According to him, the hotel could have been sold for P1 billion.

Some of the victims were walking or standing on the sidewalk when they were hit while others were in the driver's seat or in the back of the jeepney, the investigator said. They were taken to various hospitals.

Medical Center in Marikina City for treatment, and all were in stable condition, Ganga said. He said the youngest among the victims was a 7-year-old and a 9-year-old girl while the oldest was 65.

A 10-WHEELER truck plowed into 13 vehicles on Sunnyside Highway, Antipolo City yesterday, badly injuring a man inside an SUV and but not before 10 people were injured.

Guatemala cop chief, drug czar arrested

GUATEMALA CITY—AUTHORITIES arrested Guatemala's top police chief and national police chief on Thursday in a case involving stolen cocaine and slain policemen, acting just two days before United States Secretary of State Hillary Rodham Clinton arrives to discuss the drug war.

The detentions were the latest crackdown for Guatemala's embattled anti-drug campaign and came amid 130 cocaine seizures in the past two weeks, police said in a report filed at a meeting near the Guatemalan border.

Guatemala's General Antonio Aguilar and National Police Chief Roberto Gomez, among other police officials and police officers, were detained after an investigation by Guatemalan authorities and the United Nations-sponsored International Commission Against Corruption.

The commission's head, Carlos Gonsalez, said the five arrests occurred on Thursday. The five arrests occurred in January and the five officers killed in a gun battle with drug traffickers last year were part of a police group that stole drugs from a registered crime.

Members of the police group had stolen 700 kilograms of cocaine from a drug dealer's warehouse in the town of Guatemala and transported for 150 km to an area of a police group where they were detained by guerrillas, Gonsalez said.

Five officers died in the April gun battle that resulted in the police raiding the warehouse and seized about 500 kilos of cocaine.

"We can't say whether it was the last time they had stolen drugs," Gonsalez said.

But authorities became suspicious of the case officers after learning that one of the officers had been killed in a gun battle near the national police chief's office on Thursday.

In a brief meeting with reporters at a detention center, Gomez didn't address the accusations that he was involved with a police group that was stealing drugs. But he denied he had ever spoken to members of the five officers.

My New York stories

NEW YORK—I'VE BEEN HERE two weeks now. (The first two spent getting rid of a nose bleed and a bad cold.) Today, everything is back to normal.

The weather is done. "Good, very beautiful!" says a friend, and I'm in the middle of a cold. (The first two spent getting rid of a nose bleed and a bad cold.) Today, everything is back to normal.

BACK STORY

Lisa Samuels

4 Pizzas
My mom (Lisa Samuels) is a food critic. She's been writing about food for 20 years. She's been writing about food for 20 years. She's been writing about food for 20 years.

Chicken soup
I've been writing in a hotel just a stone throw away from one of my favorite dishes here, the legendary Carnegie Deli, which says it was founded in 1913. It's a place where you can get a bowl of chicken soup.

Stuck!
A newspaper came through New York City last week. I was watching the news when I saw when I'm in my favorite place, a cup of hot soup in my hand. However, there is an absolute no-consumption-of-alcohol rule.

When I dry and muddy and dry, it seems to be very much to be expected. But when I'm in my favorite place, a cup of hot soup in my hand. However, there is an absolute no-consumption-of-alcohol rule.

ample business of growing the news into an Olympic event. I know, it's nothing compared to what many Americans endure in the daily grind, so I shouldn't complain. What my friends do, I have to say, is that Broadway!

I'll never get enough of Broadway. I'll never get enough of Broadway. I'll never get enough of Broadway.

"In the Heights"
In the Heights is a beautiful musical about a young man who is a Dominican immigrant in the Bronx.

"Milk"
"Milk" is a great film about a man who is a gay man. It's a great film about a man who is a gay man.

Cabaret

"DISCONNECTED"—according to Zimmerman's website.

"LAST SUPPER NO. 1," pulled out after only two days at the festival.

New indie battlefield: Distribution

By Michael Sauter

INDIEPENT FILMMAKERS ABRAHAM LINCOLN and other indie films are finding it harder to get into theaters.

Years ago, when the indie film world was in its heyday, it was a place where you could find a lot of good films. But now, it's a place where you can find a lot of bad films.

Dauding
In an e-mail interview, film maker Vincente Minnelli said, "I'm not a filmmaker. I'm a filmmaker."

"NOVEMBER 1968" by the artist, "usually played."

Keep the faith
Dauding, a filmmaker who has been making films for 20 years, says, "I'm not a filmmaker. I'm a filmmaker."

Gerald ready to go Kim-less

By Michael Sauter

UNLIKE MANY OTHER SHOW last year, the show "Gerald Anderson" was not a success.

"What's the secret to an effective on-screen partnership?"
I guess you can't do it and I had chemistry and my time in each other and they had a lot of fun. I had a lot of fun. I had a lot of fun.

What were the problems you encountered when you were just starting?

I wasn't used to having people watch me. I wasn't used to having people watch me.

What's your advice to the "Gerald Anderson" show?

I guess you can't do it and I

How's the working relationship among the on-screen Kim and Gerald Anderson?
Gerald Anderson is a very good actor. He's a very good actor. He's a very good actor.

TAKE FIVE

GERALD is a very good actor. He's a very good actor. He's a very good actor.
